Immediate Release Friday 28 February 2014

Mechanical engineering firms excellent start to 2014
Start to the year even better than anticipated at the end of 2013

Mechanical engineering firms enjoyed a sparkling start to 2014 according to the Engineering and Machinery Alliance (EAMA). Its January Business Monitor shows that most companies reported gains in UK enquiries (51%) and orders (53%), while two in four exporters recorded the same for their overseas enquiries (38%) and orders (40%).

Companies also performed strongly in other areas. For example on jobs there were far more companies taking on people than cutting back (+24), nearly half (47%) of firms said they were investing in all areas and on finance while one in five firms (19%) said they found working capital easier one in ten (11%) found investment funding easier to access.

The last time the Monitor recorded such a positive start to the year was in 2011.

Martin Walder, EAMA chairman: "The business results round prospects and orders were well anticipated in the Monitor through the fourth quarter last year. We might even say the same for the jobs and investment numbers. The really pleasant surprises are in the access to finance findings and the declining proportion of companies reporting fewer enquiries or orders.

On finance it's true the overwhelming majority see no change, but the quite definite positive balances on working and investment funding are hopefully a sign that all the support government has put in place to help SMEs find the finance they need is beginning to show through.

"We have been here before, waiting on the next months' figures only to find the apparent improvements fizzle out by before the next quarter.

"When it comes to enquiries and orders we can see a strengthening trend for UK and for exports as there are fewer companies overall reporting declines compared with a year ago. The UK and export numbers are within a point of one another with running three-month averages currently at half the rate of a year ago on enquiries (11% for home and overseas compared with 21% and 20% respectively) and on orders down by a third at around two in ten compared with three in ten.

"Confidence is bullish and with business having got off to such a good start companies will be expecting the Chancellor to fashion the Budget to make sure the recovery is fully anchored into solid, broad based activity to deliver growth and jobs across the country. We see construction beginning to pick up, needing more of our machines, the food sector, energy, offshore and subsea work too and so on, but the export challenge remains. When the final figures come out I'm sure we'll see that mechanical engineering exporters did perform well, but we still need to get more companies exporting."

Notes to editors:

1. EAMA's 10 trade associations represent 1,350 firms: Agricultural Engineers Association, -- British Automation and Robot Association -- British Fluid Power Association -- British Paper Machinery Suppliers Association -- British Plastics Federation -- British Turned Part Manufacturers Association -- Gauge and Toolmakers Association -- Manufacturing Technologies Association -- Printing Industry Confederation -- Processing and Packaging Machinery Association -- UK Industrial Vision Association
2. There's no December Monitor as the business period for many firms is only a three-week span.
3. The Monitor records the proportion of firms in each category, not the number of enquiries, orders etc

Business Monitor for January (92 responses, 63% exporters)
